Rotary Centre for the Arts adds BC Singer-Songwriter Luca Fogale to Winter Performance Series

(Kelowna, BC) - The Rotary Centre for the Arts (RCA) is excited to welcome emerging BC singer-songwriter Luca Fogale to the Mary Irwin Theatre (421 Cawston Ave.) for an intimate evening of live music on Saturday, March 5 at 8:00 PM. Fogale is touring in support of his latest album, Nothing Is Lost (2020).

Originally from Burnaby, British Columbia, Fogale was raised on a steady diet of Nina Simone and Joni Mitchell. Those influences show in his stirring vocals, which seem soft and gentle on the surface, but cut deep to reveal hidden truths and suppressed emotions.

Audiences were first introduced to Fogale on his debut album, Safety. Released in 2016, Safety showcases Fogale's fine-tuned ear for warm, wool-sweater melodies, richly rendered narratives, and intimate autumnal ambiance. His 2020 follow-up, Nothing Is Lost, sees Fogale graduate from the proverbial coffeehouse to the concert hall, recasting his private conversations as cinematic set pieces.

Says Colleen Fitzpatrick, Executive Director of the RCA, "It's always a thrill to welcome artists like Luca, who represent the next generation of homegrown BC talent. Here at the RCA, we strive to highlight the work of emerging artists from across the Central Okanagan and the rest of the province, and we can't wait to connect Luca's moving music with our community of patrons."

Karma Lacroff Nieoczym, Theatre Programming Coordinator at the RCA, adds, "Luca's music is intimate and deeply felt, providing exactly the kind of connection that so many have missed over the past two years. With the Mary Irwin Theatre now back at full capacity, we're ready to welcome our community back to enjoy this outstanding BC artist."
